SUMMER SESSION—The campus got about one week's "rest" between the end of second semester and the first Summer Session, but the campus will be "really moving" from now until Aug. 24, as shown by this picture taken between classes Tuesday. More than 2,500 are expected to be enrolled in the first session, special programs, workshops, and the freshman program.

New 10-Week Frosh Program Attracts Large Enrollment

Approximately 200 entering freshmen will begin their college educations Monday, as the University's first "extended summer session" begins. The 10-week program will end Aug. 23.

Students who successfully complete the extended session will be considered continuing students and may qualify for admission to the main campus in Feb., 1962, if vacancies are available at that time.

Thus a student who enters the extended session and continues his studies during the second semester of the 1961-62 academic year will be able to complete almost a full year of college.

Freshmen who complete the Summer Session will be given preference for admission to the University in February over students transferring from the branches, since it is possible to complete the year in the branch program.

This program was developed through faculty request and is designed to ease the usual concentrated pressure which is prevalent in regular summer school sessions. According to Dr. Ralph H. Geer, director of summer school and off-campus programs, the extended session will be beneficial to the students as well as the faculty in this respect.

Entering freshmen enrolled in this new program will attend classes for 48 days, each class lasting for one hour. Students who are ranked in the lower one third of their high school graduating class will be allowed to take a maximum of 10 hours. English 101 will be compulsory and the student may select the remaining hours from courses offered in biology, history, speech, and HPE.

Students ranking in the upper two thirds of their high school class will have the choice of the same courses, but, with the approval of their dean, they will be allowed to enroll for a maximum of 12 hours.

According to Dr. Geer the program has been effectively planned and should operate successfully. "We are very enthused about this new system," he said. "The acceptance has been so great that we have had to double the number of sections because of a greater enrollment than we originally had anticipated."

Though enrollment figures for the regular summer sessions, each consisting of five-week periods, are not complete, estimates indicated enrollment is about 10 per cent higher than last summer's total.

13th Huron Playhouse Presents 7 Productions

For the thirteenth consecutive season, the University Summer Theatre will be conducted in the vacation city of Huron on Lake Erie, as a unique educational experience in dramatic arts, including class work and play production.

Seven productions will be presented this summer, including "Tall Story," July 11 through 15; "The Pleasure of His Company," July 18 through 22; "Oklahoma," July 25 through 29; "You Can't Take It With You," Aug. 1 through 5; "Smilin' Through," Aug. 8 through 12; "Down in the Valley" and "My Heart's in the Highlands," Aug. 15 through 19; and "Once Upon a Clothesline," Aug. 17 and 18.

The Huron company will present "The Pleasure of His Company" in the main auditorium, Administration Bldg., at 8 p.m., Monday, July 17. The double feature "Down in the Valley" and "My Heart's in the Highlands" will be presented to the campus at 8 p.m., Monday, Aug. 14, in the same place. Summer Session students can attend the Bowling Green productions without charge by presenting their identification cards.

Members of the Huron Playhouse, which includes 32 students and seven staff members from nine colleges and universities, will begin their summer work Sunday, June 25.

Dr. F. Lee Miesle, director of the University Theatre and assistant professor of speech, is managing director of the Playhouse. Others on the staff include Dr.

19 Workshops On Summer Schedule

The Summer School is offering 19 workshops and nine special programs concurrently with the regular schedule of summer courses. Six of the workshops and two of the special programs are now in session, with another, the Huron Playhouse, scheduled to begin Sunday, June 25.

Dr. Lorrene L. Ort, assistant professor of education, is directing the workshop, "Reading and the Language Arts," which began Monday. The course offers a laboratory exploration of the communicative arts—reading, listening, speaking, and writing—as these are developed creatively and sequentially in the modern elementary school.

Reference materials, class discussions, experimentation, and resource persons will provide greater insights into the when to, where to, why to, as well as many how to's of the program. The doing process is emphasized throughout the workshop, with the attempt to translate modern theory into classroom action.

"Slow Learner" Workshop

Virginia Baker, supervisor of the division of special education for the Ohio Department of Education, will direct a three-week workshop starting Monday in "Education of the Slow Learner." This class will spend half its time with two demonstration groups of children under special class teachers and the other half in discussions, panels, and hearing lectures by recognized authorities.

Off-Campus Workshops

Two off-campus workshops are being conducted in three area cities during the Summer Session.

The "Community Resources" workshops at Bryan, currently in session through June 30, and Van Wert, to start July 24 through August 11, are designed to help the teacher become better acquainted with teaching resources in his community, to locate and plan for the use of them, and to gain better insight into the economic and social life of the community. Dr. Stewart Berry, assistant professor of education, is the instructor.

"General Music," which started Monday and continues through Friday, June 23, at Sandusky, provides instruction in methods of teaching music in the elementary grades. Mrs. Mildred McCrystal, supervisor of elementary music, Sandusky City Schools, is the instructor.

One of the workshops that will take longer than the scheduled three weeks is "Independent Reading in English." The course is developed along the individual's need and desires in reading. The student reports in writing on his readings for the summer. Dr. Merle Fifield, instructor in English, supervises the course.

HPE Study

The "Physical Education and Athletics Workshop" assists HPE teachers and athletic coaches in acquiring further competency in the conduct of the normal athletic activities in the secondary school or college.

Emphasis is placed upon a review of the fundamentals of the various sports plus the latest theories and practices employed by coaches today. Dr. Sam Sooper, chairman of the department of HURON PLAYHOUSE—More than 40 students and staff members will be calling this "home" beginning Sunday, June 25, when the group travels to Huron to take part in the University's Summer Theatre. A unique educational venture, this special workshop combines class work and actual play production that provides entertainment twice for the campus and eight times in Huron.

Board Reviews Building Progress

A progress report on nine construction projects, either near completion, under way, or in planning stages, was reviewed by the Board of Trustees at the June 11 meeting of the Board.

Work on the new residence center for women, on Ridge Street between Thurstin and North College Drive, is rapidly getting under way. Buildings had been cleared from the site this spring.

Pouring of foundations and footers for the west unit of this building will begin next week. The Freeman Company, of Wooster, has the contract for the five-story building which will house approximately 1,200 women.

Work is progressing on new utility tunnels, which will service the houses on Sorority Row and the Health Center. The first major concrete portion will be put in place this week. The new tunnels, which will carry steam, water, electric, and telephone lines, will run north from Shatzel Hall, with a branch ending near Prout Hall. The completion date is September.

Construction of the addition to the Fine Arts Building is well under way. It appears now, the report states, that the $370,000 addition will be under roof by winter.

The new Joe E. Brown Theatre, the modern little-theater installation built in the old Rec Hall area of the Administration Bldg., is 98 per cent complete. It will be ready for use in September.

Site clearance and final grading is yet to be done on the new Residence Center for Men on East Wooster Street. Part of the Center was occupied at the beginning of the second semester, and all units were fully occupied by the end of the semester.

Bids on the new Administration Bldg. were opened Tuesday. It is hoped that construction on this nine-story building, which will be on Thurstin Street facing the old Administration Bldg., will be started in July.

Final architectural contracts are being processed for the design and working drawings for a dining facility to replace the Commons. The architects, Sims, Cornelius & Schooley, estimate that approximately four months will be required to complete the plans for the building.

The new dining hall is being designed to accommodate approximately 1,200 students. A central kitchen will serve three or four separate dining halls. Tentative plans call for an all-weather passage to connect this building to Rodgers Quadrangle. September, 1962, is the planned completion date.

Additional kitchen and dining facilities are being planned as a part of the third and fourth units of the new Men's Residence Center. Preliminary discussions are under way with the architects, Sims, Cornelius & Schooley. Facilities for housing an additional 1,000 men also will be provided in these new units. Opening is planned for September, 1963.

The state architect has been asked to assign an architectural and engineering firm to design the first unit of a new stadium. No announcement has been made of a proposed schedule on this project.

Education Department Adds To Summer Staff

Dr. M. Elizabeth Bell, assistant professor of elementary education at the University of Arizona, Tucson, will teach education courses during the second Summer Session.

Dr. Bell has had extensive teaching experience in Indiana, Ohio, and Arizona. She also is a member of several professional organizations.

Dr. Ralph F. Perry, a specialist in Old French and Middle French language and literature, will augment the staff of the department of foreign languages during the second Summer Session. Dr. Perry will teach elementary French and Spanish. He has taught at several universities in Illinois and Missouri and has had administrative experience in public schools.

Dr. Perry also has served as a special agent and Spanish and Portuguese translator with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Washington D.C. He is the author of one textbook and two magazine articles.

Official Announcements

Students who expect to complete requirements for degrees to be conferred in August should make application for graduation at the Office of the Registrar by June 21.

Students may obtain their identification cards for the first session of Summer School at the Office of the Registrar.

UAO Summer Activities Include Movies, Lectures, Book Displays

Summer Session students don't have football games, Homecoming, or Greek events to keep them away from their studies (correctly phrased, "extracurricular activities"), but there is a diverse program of summer activities available.

Richard A. Lenhart, program director of the Union, is director of the summer program, assisted by Judy Creason and Marilyn Miller. The program will include performances, movies, discussions, lectures, and social events.

First on the agenda is "Monday Movie," featuring "Carousel" at 6:30 p.m. Monday in the Dogwood Suite. Gordon MacRae and Shirley Jones are featured in a poignant story about a carnival barker and the shy cotton-mill girl he marries. The music of Rodgers and Hammerstein and the use of Cinemascope and color have helped make this a show to remember.

The Ohio Bookmen's Club display will be featured Tuesday through Thursday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the ballroom. Representatives from 40 publishing companies display books for the benefit of interested teachers and students.

A special lecture will be presented Monday, June 26, in the Dogwood Suite by Dr. Hans Kohn, visiting lecturer on campus this summer. He's an authority on early European history, and his topic will be announced later. He will present another lecture early in July.

"Tuesday Travel" will feature "A Trip to the Far East," June 27 in the Dogwood Suite. Major and Mrs. Brooks Anderson will discuss their travels in the Far East. Refreshments will be served.

"Thursday Topics" will meet for the first time June 29 at 3:30 p.m. in the Alumni Room. Virginia Baker, visiting faculty member and supervisor of the division of special education for the Ohio Department of Education, will discuss the slow learner and refreshments will be served.

Other activities slated to begin in July are watermelon cuttings and productions on campus by the members of Huron Playhouse. Details of these events will be presented in the next issue of the Summer B-G News.

Admission to all the events is without charge unless specifically stated. Students must show their identification cards for admission to movies, plays on campus, and special feature events.

A printed program of summer events has been prepared by Mr. Lenhart and his assistants. Programs are available at the information desk in the Union.

UCF To Sponsor Thursday Vespers

The first in a series of worship services sponsored by United Christian Fellowship, a cooperative campus ministry with eight Protestant denominations as sponsoring bodies, will be conducted from 6:30 to 7 p.m. Thursday, June 22, in Prout Chapel.

The weekly vespers will be held each Thursday during the two Summer Sessions, with different ministers at each meeting. The services are open to anyone who wishes to attend.

The Rev. M. Eugene Davis, UCF director, will conduct the first service next Thursday. He and the Rev. Will Power have invited anyone who is interested in other informal sessions for the discussion of the vital questions of life, its meaning and purpose, to contact them at the UCF House, 243 Thurstin St. They will arrange for such discussions upon request.

2-Time All-American LaPrise '62 NCAA Magazine Cover Boy

Gary LaPrise, one of the country's outstanding swimmers, has won several races, awards, and honors in his career at Bowling Green, but none quite like his latest achievement.

He has been chosen to be the man on the cover of the 1962 NCAA Swimming Guide, a magazine that lists previews, reviews, schedules, and other important data about the nation's tank crews.

A two-year all-American entering his final campaign next winter, LaPrise was awarded all-American honors this spring for his 22.3 time in the 50-yard dash in the NCAA finals—the fourth fastest in the nation and only .6 second behind the national and world record holder.

Last year his 22.5 placed him fifth in the nation. In the MAC Championships this year, the Detroit star won the 50, 100, and 220-yard freestyle events as the Falcons finished a close second to Ohio University.

Named to the third team of the District 4 selections, and first team all-Mid-American Conference, the Cincinnati sophomore hit .400 in league competition—fourth high in the MAC—and .380 over-all.

A non-profit organization operated by the University's department of speech, the Playhouse strives to fulfill three purposes: to extend the influence of the living theater, to extend the service of the University to northern and western Ohio, and to provide a unique educational experience for students of theater.

In the past 12 seasons since the Playhouse was founded in 1949, more than 95,000 theatergoers have attended some 390 performances and more than 400 students from dozens of different colleges and universities have been company members.

Tickets for the plays at Huron are $1.50 for adults and 50 cents for children. Bargain books containing six adult tickets are available for $7.50, a saving of $1.50. They are good for any performance, and may be used one or more at a time. Tickets for Huron productions are available by mail or at the box office. All seats are reserved. Advance reservations, which can be made by writing to the Huron Playhouse, Huron, Ohio, or by phoning Huron 437-2171, will be held until five minutes before curtain time, which is 8 p.m. for all productions.

FLYING TV STATION—Dr. Fred Williams, instructor in education, poses with the world's first flying television "station," an airplane that will beam taped television courses to schools with a potential of 5 million students throughout a six-state Midwest region, beginning in September.

Airborne TV Instruction Planned

health and physical education, is the coordinator.

Uses of television in the classroom will be the subject of the workshop beginning Monday for teachers, principals, and superintendents.

This workshop, directed by Dr. Fred E. Williams, instructor in education, is being offered in conjunction with the Midwest Program on Airborne Television Instruction (MPATI) which plans to televise a full academic year of courses starting in September.

Similar workshops on airborne television instruction will be offered at 19 other colleges and universities throughout Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Kentucky, Illinois, and Wisconsin.

Video tapes on the use of classroom television will be telecast to workshops 2 1/2 hours a day from an airplane flying at 23,000 feet over Indiana. Telecasts will show actual classroom situations with the receiving teacher and pupils.

Reading Program

A reading improvement program for students seven to 18 years old is currently in session through July 14.

Dr. Martha Gesling Weber, director of the University Reading Center, stated that the program includes a thorough diagnosis and analysis of each student's reading problems, followed by individual and small group instruction geared to specific needs.

NSF Program

Twenty students from Northwest Ohio high schools are participating in the National Science Foundation program of special topics in chemistry.

Chosen upon recommendation of teachers, scholastic records, and tests administered by the University, participants are receiving all registration and tuition costs and up to one half of the living costs on campus.

The program offers daily lectures on the fundamentals and modern concepts of general chemistry, laboratory work in inorganic, analytical, organic, and radiochemistry, and participation in a laboratory research effort.

Several field trips also are planned.

Dr. W. H. Hall, chairman of the chemistry department, is director of the program, which ends July 18.

University Professor Gives Ideas About 'The Schools Of Tomorrow'

As modern technology makes inroads on teaching, educators are changing their ideas of what the schools of tomorrow should look like.

Dr. Willard Fox, a school administration specialist at the University, says that tomorrow's schools will be "almost windowless, with every climatic condition automatically controlled."

The standard box-shape classroom is to be replaced by rooms built on hexagonal or triangular planes. "I see no need to stick to the 'box' " Dr. Fox comments. "It has been shown that rooms in other shapes provide better acoustics and a less-restrictive atmosphere."

Facilities for classroom television, wall-to-wall carpeting to reduce noise, extensive use of color in structural materials and electronic ovens for cooking frozen lunches also are planned for future schools.

"These innovations are not frills," Dr. Fox said. "They are aimed toward making the educational plant more efficient and toward meeting the needs of tomorrow's curriculum."

Fox

Dr. Fox, a former superintendent of schools, is conducting a course in "School Plant Planning" that began Tuesday and concludes July 18. The course features four field trips and a series of guest lecturers speaking on the topics of on-the-job construction problems, concrete shells for buildings, electronic cooking, space heating with electricity, and air conditioning of school buildings.

The field trips include visits to outstanding elementary, junior and senior high schools, and to Nela Park, a widely known school lighting institute in Cleveland. Instruction in school plant planning is required for state certification of superintendents of schools.

LOST AND FOUND

A lost and found service, operated during the school year by the Union Activities Organization, will continue to function during the Summer Sessions. It will be located in the Union Activities office, on the third floor of the Union.
